Full Stack Developer with a passion for designing creative, user-centric solutions. I completed my Bachelors in Business (focus: Information Systems) through the University of Washington and the UX Foundations Certification through LinkedIn.com and am currently completing a Full Stack Development Certification through the University of Washington. Through my role managing the databases and user interactions at NuWest Group, I built skills in identifying problems, ideating solutions, and executing. I aspire to use those skills to develop applications to create efficiency for users and businesses.
